WALDRON DRAWS FIRE OF MAYORALTY CANDIDATES

JOHN C. LANE IS NOT IN FAVOR OF WALDRON'S PLAN

Candidate for Mayor Says All Are Not So Fortunately Situated as Proposer

John C. Lane, Republican candidate for mayor of the city, disagrees with the plan outlined by F. L. Waldron—to give his salary—if elected—to the poor. In an interview today, Lane said:

"Nonpartisan Candidate Waldron's declaration that he would run for the mayorship of the city and give the salary of the office to the Associated Charities has a sympathetic ring of aloha for the poor. But why make the proviso, provided those who would run on such a nonpartisan ticket with him must follow his generous proposed donation?"

"I believe in a person who practices what he preaches, notwithstanding whether others, perhaps not so well provided and generous as he is, would do likewise. If Mr. Waldron could launch a city policy as he stated successfully then Hawaii has discovered at last the real science in efficient and philanthropic system of the management and care of the poor of cities of the world over, by and through its officials and perhaps some day Congress may adopt it likewise."

"Whether Mr. Waldron could accomplish successfully what he intends to do to revolutionize the city of Honolulu in generosity, in my humble opinion, it is at the very least good advertisement anyway and therefore I attribute it to his training on the Promotion Committee of Hawaii when he was its presiding officer."

"I wish also to remind Mr. Waldron a high-salaried official of the territory heretofore tried the experiment and found it beyond him—and recently a member of the present board of supervisors declared at a meeting of the board that he was willing to donate his salary to charity (if my memory bears me out correctly) and asked his colleagues who are not so fortunate and generous as he is to join him in the experiment. To this day I am wondering whether he has set the example of real love for the poor."

"My knowledge and information concerning public boards and commissions serving without pay, the paid secretary thereof generally does all the preparations and furnishing of statistics to guide the members of said board or commission."

"In conclusion I say many imaginary and impractical policies are spoken of but sometimes being unreasonable and unfair to others who have no bank deposits yet those who are so unfortunate may and perhaps are more sincere and honest in what they declare to the public their policies. Are they then to be looked upon as unfit persons to be elected to the official life of the city of Honolulu?"

"I am one of those unfortunate persons who is seeking the Republican nomination at the primary election to be held September 12 for the office of mayor and sincerely and conscientiously believe and pledge that I will give an administration where the 'pork-barrel system' will have no place within the councils of the city. The office of mayor of Honolulu belongs to the people in common. The person to be elected to the responsible position must always bear in mind he is the chief executive of a city of a cosmopolitan character. A fair, just, impartial and honest purpose must be his make-up."

FRENCH ACTION PROTESTED BY DR. SUN YAT SEN

Delivery to the Chinese Government of Refugees Subject of Objection

[By Latest Mail]
LONDON.—Ma So, Sun Yat Sen's representative in London, called at the Monitor office to discuss the Chinese situation. He had just returned from Paris after protesting to the French government against the action of the French authorities in Shanghai in handing to the Chinese government the revolutionary refugees in the French concession. M. Jaures and M. Dubois, deputy for Paris, promised to raise the question in the chamber.

The cause of the recent mutiny of the first division of Yuan's army at Kalgan, he said, was Yuan's inability to pay the troops. Kalgan being a little more than 100 miles from the capital adds importance to the outbreak and confirms what the Monitor has persistently stated, that the men's loyalty terminates with the cessation of pay.

In Japan also continual efforts are made to discredit China, fictitious letters from Dr. Sun being published with a view to cause the expulsion of Dr. Sun and his followers from Japan. "The Japanese are nevertheless quite in sympathy with us," Ma added, "and if the government do not appear

JOEL C. COHEN STATES STAND ON REMUNERATION

Brands Plan for Rich Man's Government as Un-American

In a signed statement made today Joel C. Cohen, avowed candidate for the mayorship of Honolulu on the Republican ticket, makes clear his position relative to the salary question insofar as the mayor's office is concerned, also relative to the board of supervisors.

After growing a trifle caustic regarding the announcement made this morning by Fred L. Waldron, Mr. Cohen gets down to business and clearly states his position. He says he would employ a competent man as private secretary, deducting from his own salary and adding to that of the secretary a sufficient sum to insure a man who could fill the bill satisfactorily. The balance of the salary he would give to charity.

The statement follows: "A candidate for mayor has offered to work for nothing. Now it is up to someone else to propose putting the office up at auction and giving it to the man who will give the most for the honor."

"Then start a bargain sale for supervisors giving the job to those who will work the cheapest. In this way we may get a lot of high-brows who will work about a month or until the honor wears off and for the balance of the time do nothing."

"What is needed for supervisors are men of good common sense who are honest and who will devote their time to the city's good."

"The city is not an object of charity and it can well afford to pay good men who are capable but who cannot afford to work for nothing. Occasionally a rich philanthropist may come along and be able to do so, but the average poor man can not work for nothing and stay honest."

"Mr. Waldron's plan calls for a rich man's government, but it is UN-AMERICAN. This government is a government by the people and all classes should have a chance. We don't want class legislation by class legislators. "If the dollar sign is the qualification for our mayor and board of supervisors, why not pick out the men who have the highest rating in Dun's and Bradstreet's and turn the city over to them."

"If Mr. Waldron is sincere in wanting to work for nothing, why don't he come out unqualifiedly and offer to do so. Why any of its string attachments. If he is a business man and is competent to carry out the idea of a business administration he ought to know that his proviso that the supervisors also work for nothing is not feasible."

"Now, I had no intention of making any cheap bid for public favor by offering to do anything that might be construed as technically illegal, but in view of Mr. Waldron's offer and the way the press has fallen for it, I will now make public what I have intended to do if elected to the office of mayor."

"I will take from my salary enough to add to the salary of the mayor's secretary so as to insure the selection of a competent man for the position and the balance of my salary I will give to the Leahi Home and other worthy charities and I do this without any ifs, ands or buts in reference to the board of supervisors or any other public official."

"But the office should have the salary because THAT'S BUSINESS."
(Signed) "J. C. COHEN."

so it is because the other course is at present diplomatically impossible." Meanwhile, he says, Dr. Sun has many men holding high positions in China and they will move at the right time.

RATH DECLARES SUMMER CAMP GREAT SUCCESS

Mothers and children, the former numbering eight and the latter 26, from Honolulu's tenements are enjoying life to the limit, according to Headworker James A. Rath of the Palama Settlement, who returned to the city from the fresh air camp at Kaipapau yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Rath, who fathered the movement, returned from the camp in an exceedingly happy frame of mind from the fact that a much-talked-about new feature of the settlement's work at last is well under way and is proving a remarkably lusty youngster.

"It's a go, all right," smiled the headworker this morning. "It is proving even a greater success than I anticipated. If we can be assured of the funds, we are going to make it an annual feature."

According to Mr. Rath, the past two weeks have resolved into a wonderful something for the tenement mothers and children. Away from the heat and dust of Honolulu and out amid green fields and with the surf lapping on the sand close by, the little party has enjoyed itself to the limit. Questioning by the nurse in charge brought out the facts that it is the first time that the majority of the mothers and their children had had a vacation. Some of them did not know the meaning of the word. Many of the children on the trip to the camping grounds had their first ride on a railway.

The life in the camp, however, is not a continuous round of pleasure, and yet, looking at it from another standpoint, it is. The mothers cook their own meals and attend to the little housework of their respective tents. But there is a great deal of difference between house work in a spotless tent and house work in a stuffy little back room in a tenement. Then, too, the mothers are learning something about which, perhaps, they never before gave a moment's thought. They are learning how to take care of their children; how to ward off disease; how to prepare simple meals, and the value of different foods. The nurse and the physician in charge constantly are dropping little hints as to how certain things should be done, and each hint is a lesson in itself; one to which the mothers, and even the children, pay the carefullest attention.

Summing it all up, the tenement mothers and their children are heartily enjoying the vacation; they are having the time of their lives, as Mr. Rath puts it. When the simple household duties are finished, they roam the fields, swim in the ocean, and even take long tramps into the hills. It is a typical fresh air camp, and will become a permanent feature of the settlement's work if the necessary funds to continue it may be secured.

The party now at the camp will return Monday morning, and another party, consisting of 46 mothers and children, will leave Honolulu to take its place. The camp now is in charge of Dr. W. T. Dunn of the Queen's hospital, and Miss C. Kemp, a settlement district nurse.

Y. M. C. A. Cafeteria will open at 6 a. m. Saturday, July 25.—advertisement.
